

ADVERTISEMENT

The Big Volkswagen Event
Ends 12th July

Find out more

IN ASSOCIATION WITH PRIDE OF BRITAIN

OPINION Political communication is achieving new levels of appalling toxicity

"Assassination"... "knifing"... "killing zone"... The language being used is crass and intimidating

COMMENTS

▶ See news near you

In YourArea

Enter your postcode

Want to keep up to date on Welsh politics?

Enter your email

Sign up and get political news sent straight to your inbox

When you subscribe we will use the information you provide to send you these newsletters. Sometimes they'll include recommendations for other related newsletters or services we offer. Our Privacy Notice explains more about how we use your data, and your rights. You can unsubscribe at any time.

When the BBC's former political editor Nick Robinson tweeted last week that people who you disagreed with weren't "enemies or traitors" and that they don't deserve to be "knifed or lynched or hanged" he was clearly passing comment on the current toxicity of political discourse.

Nick Robinson
@bbcnickrobinson

Thought for the day : Those you disagree with aren't enemies or traitors. They don't deserve to be "knifed or lynched or hanged". They are just people you disagree with. Those who

TWEET LOADING

Privacy

The seemingly interminable wrangling over Brexit has polarised and divided opinion, and the way in which these opinions are being expressed, has, in some quarters, seen proponents on both sides resort to the language of violence and intimidation.

The Sunday Times of October 21 illustrated this perfectly. It's front page headline proclaimed, PM enters 'killing zone', whilst the adjoining report quoted an ally of former Brexit Secretary, David Davis, as saying: "assassination is in the air".

Further on in the paper, a full two-page feature devoted to the deficiencies of Mrs May ended with a quote from an unnamed former minister: "The moment is coming when the knife gets heated, stuck in her front and twisted. She'll be dead soon."

And, while it would be silly to suggest that the business of politics has ever been characterised by deference and good manners - one only has to consider the history of PM's Questions in the House of Commons for a reminder of how juvenile, base and degraded British democracy can be - the binary nature of the emotive Brexit debate has seen an increase in visceral and intimidatory language.

This talk of "knifing" and "assassinations" - though obviously meant in a metaphorical sense - is nonetheless crass and ill considered. We are only two years on from the appalling murder of Labour MP Jo Cox, who was shot and stabbed to death outside her own constituency headquarters.

📍 Labour MP Jo Cox was killed by far-right activist Thomas Mair in her Batley and Spenningshall constituency (Image: PA)

Thankfully, there has been some public condemnation. Robert Halfon, chairman of the Commons Education Committee told BBC Radio 4's World At One that the use of such language was shameful and that MPs shouldn't go around "aping the kind of extremist trolls on Twitter".

It's a pity that these sentiments are apparently not shared by Stewart Jackson, the former Tory MP who was David Davis' top adviser when he was Brexit secretary.

On the day of the People's Vote march a week ago, a man called Anthony Hopley posted on Twitter a picture of his hospitalised 12-year-old step son draped in a European Union flag bed cover. The accompanying message said: My stepson had an operation yesterday @GreatOrmondSt. He's incredibly brave but gutted he can't be at the #PeoplesVoteMarch today with his brothers & sisters.

To which Mr Jackson replied: "What a pathetic cretin..."

It could be that we are, in the words of BBC media editor Amol Rajan, living through the utter collapse of manners and civility in our public domain - and social media appears to be to some extent significantly responsible.

And if we look across the pond to the leader of the free world we see a man whose success has been partially built on the daily utilisation of insult and violent language. From his routine misogyny (often women are animalised - most recently his former aide Omarosa Manigault Newman, was a "lowlife" and a "dog" and Stormy Daniels has been called "horse face") to the regular attacks on the media.

As a matter of fact, in August experts at the United Nations, warned that Trump's vitriolic rhetoric could result in violence against journalists. And, as I write, news comes through of a number of explosive devices sent to Barack Obama, Hillary Clinton, and CNN's New York offices.

As CNN has responded, now the debate has begun (again): What role does violent political rhetoric have on these real-life acts of violence?

 Privacy

 Rosa Parks in Doctor Who Series 11, as played by Vinette Robinson (Image: BBC)

As was the case with millions of others, I sat down with my family to watch the Dr Who episode dramatising the historic feats of US civil rights campaigner, Rosa Parks.

It was a work of remarkable poignancy which managed to tell Park's story dramatically and faithfully whilst at the same time remaining within the conventions of science fiction.

It is interesting, and perhaps significant, as journalist Dan Martin pointed out, that this was the first ever episode to be written by a person of colour (former children's laureate, Malorie Blackman co-wrote with Chris Chibnall) and only the eighth from a female writer.

Most notable in the episode was the way in which the racism of 1950s Alabama was portrayed. At times it wasn't an easy watch – the scenes on the bus where Parks was verbally abused were shocking to my eight and 10-year-olds. They simply couldn't understand why any human beings would judge another by the colour of their skin.

It had a life-affirming, uplifting ending and as so many people have said, you can imagine the episode being used in schools as a teaching aid.

Brilliant, Black and Welsh: A celebration of 100 African Caribbean and African Welsh people

But anyone under the misapprehension that those days are completely consigned to the dustbin of history only had to look at the following days news to be quickly disabused of the notion. Footage taken from a mobile phone aboard a Ryanair flight from Barcelona to Stansted showed 77-year-old Delsie Gayle being subjected to the vilest of racial abuse before being moved from her seat at the request of her abuser.

ADVERTISEMENT

Privacy

Rosa Parks died in 200... on.

ALSO BY JOHN: Come

* Dr Jewell is director of Journalism.

Like 610K

SQUARESPACE
 Donate to our NHS campaign - and you could win a prize for you or an NHS hero >
SIMPLE & SECURE DOMAIN HOSTING FOR ENTREPRENEURS
 START YOUR FREE TRIAL

Logg

University's School

138212091369

Comments

Sign In

Write a comment...

Sort Comments

This comment has been deleted

2 replies

Report

brizimm

612 DAYS AGO

As does the toxicity of your poisonous comments...which are tediously predictable and predictably get deleted, despite your desperate (and comically transparent) attempts to hide who you really are...

Reply

Share

1 reply

Report

1 3

Privacy

This comment has been deleted

Share | 1 reply | Report

brizimm

612 DAYS AGO

I do struggle to keep up with your multiple personalities - it's true. Although your sentiments remain tiresomely monotonous...

Share | Report

1 2

MORE ON

BBC

Conservative Party

Labour Party

Ryanair

Twitter

Cardiff University

Doctor Who

Politics

A parent's guide to Wales' virtual open days and how to make the most of them

Sponsored by Welsh Government

PROMOTED STORIES

The Most Addictive Farm Game of 2020. No Install

Taonga: The Island Farm

Pensioners Are Snapping Up New High Tech Bluetooth Hearing Aids

Wanted: People aged 65+ to take part in a free hearing test. We'll find your nearest expert across 300 locations nationwide, with a 60 day money back guarantee.

Compare Hearing Aids

Pensioners in Cardiff Are Snapping Up These New Bluetooth Hearing Aids
Privacy

Wanted: People aged 65+ to take part in a free hearing test. We'll find your nearest expert across 300 locations nationwide, with a 60 day money back guarantee.

Compare Hearing Aids

Affordable Assisted Living near Cardiff is Turning Heads

Senior Living | Search Ads

Sponsored Links by Taboola

Diwrnodau agored rithwir Cymru: canllawiau i rieni

Sponsored by Welsh Government

A parent's guide to Wales' virtual open days and how to make the most of them

Sponsored by Welsh Government

NEWS ALL

Most Read Most Recent

COURTS

Privacy

Restaurant which hid zero hygiene rating sticker behind umbrella is fined more than £10,000

The man behind the incredible sand art on Welsh beaches has died suddenly

PEMBROKESHIRE

Jeremy Clarkson rolls out tedious old lines about Welsh as Millionaire contestant gets to the £1m question

ITV

4

Woman's face left a mess after having lip fillers done in her home during lockdown

CARDIFF

5

Two abandoned streets left to rot amid the trees are to be demolished

MERTHYR VALE

TOP STORIES >

Tributes paid to renowned beach artist after sudden death

Privacy

PEMBROKESHIRE

Pub owner explains why it's just not economical for Wales' pubs to open on Monday - even though he'd love to

RHYL

Police ban people from Welsh town centre over street drinking and antisocial behaviour

SOUTH WALES POLICE

Second death linked to hostel used to house Cardiff's homeless in lockdown

HOMELESSNESS

Chancellor to unveil £2bn 'kickstart jobs scheme' for 16-24s - Coronavirus morning headlines (Wednesday, July 8)

CORONAVIRUS

Privacy

Brains will not be re-opening any pubs in Wales on July 13

PUBS

Restaurant which hid zero hygiene rating sticker behind umbrella is fined more than £10,000

COURTS

An 11 year-old from Cardiff has not done schoolwork since March

WALES SCHOOLS

September schools announcement for Wales expected this week - this is what the minister told a Senedd committee

EDUCATION

Woman died after basket full of washing caught fire when it was left on hob

COURTS

Privacy

The remnants of tropical Storm Edouard to hit with torrential rain followed by 30C heat

WALES WEATHER

Ineos set to build its new 4x4 in France instead of Wales - jeopardising hundreds of jobs

EMPLOYMENT

ADVERTISEMENT

NEWS

WHAT'S ON

SPORT

BUSINESS

FOLLOW US

Privacy

Donate to our NHS campaign and you

InYourArea | Discount Codes | Marketplace | Contact Us | About Us | Work for us |
Download our e-editions | Letters To The Editor | Echo Home Delivery | Magazines |
Advertise with Us | Our Audience | footie5 | thepools.com | Bingo | Buy a photo |
How to Complain | Corrections and Clarifications | Reader Panel | Public Notices |
Terms & Conditions | Privacy Notice | Cookie Notice | RSS Feeds | Newsletters Signup |
© 2020 Media Wales Ltd |

Privacy