

Figure 3.13: Demonstrating a tenosynovial interconnection (★) between the Flexor Digitorum Superficialis (ring finger) (A) and Flexor Digitorum Superficialis (little finger) (B). Also seen is Flexor Digitorum Profundus (little finger) (C).

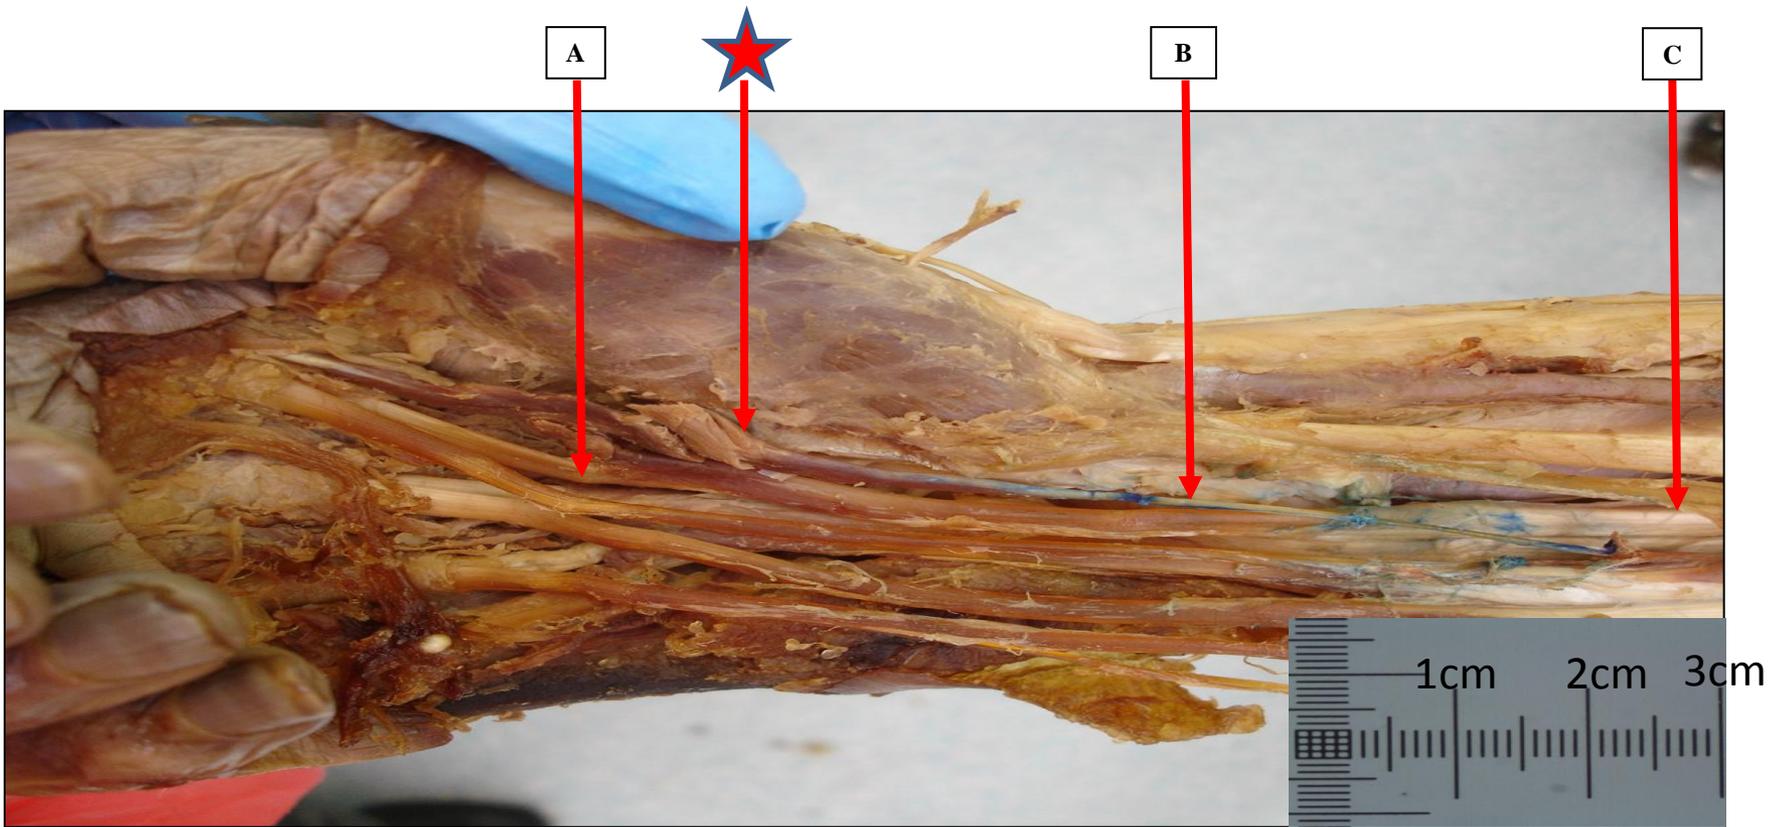

Figure 3.14: Demonstrating an interconnection (★) between the First lumbrical (B) and Flexor Digitorum Superficialis (index finger) (A). Also seen is Flexor Digitorum Profundus (index finger) (C)

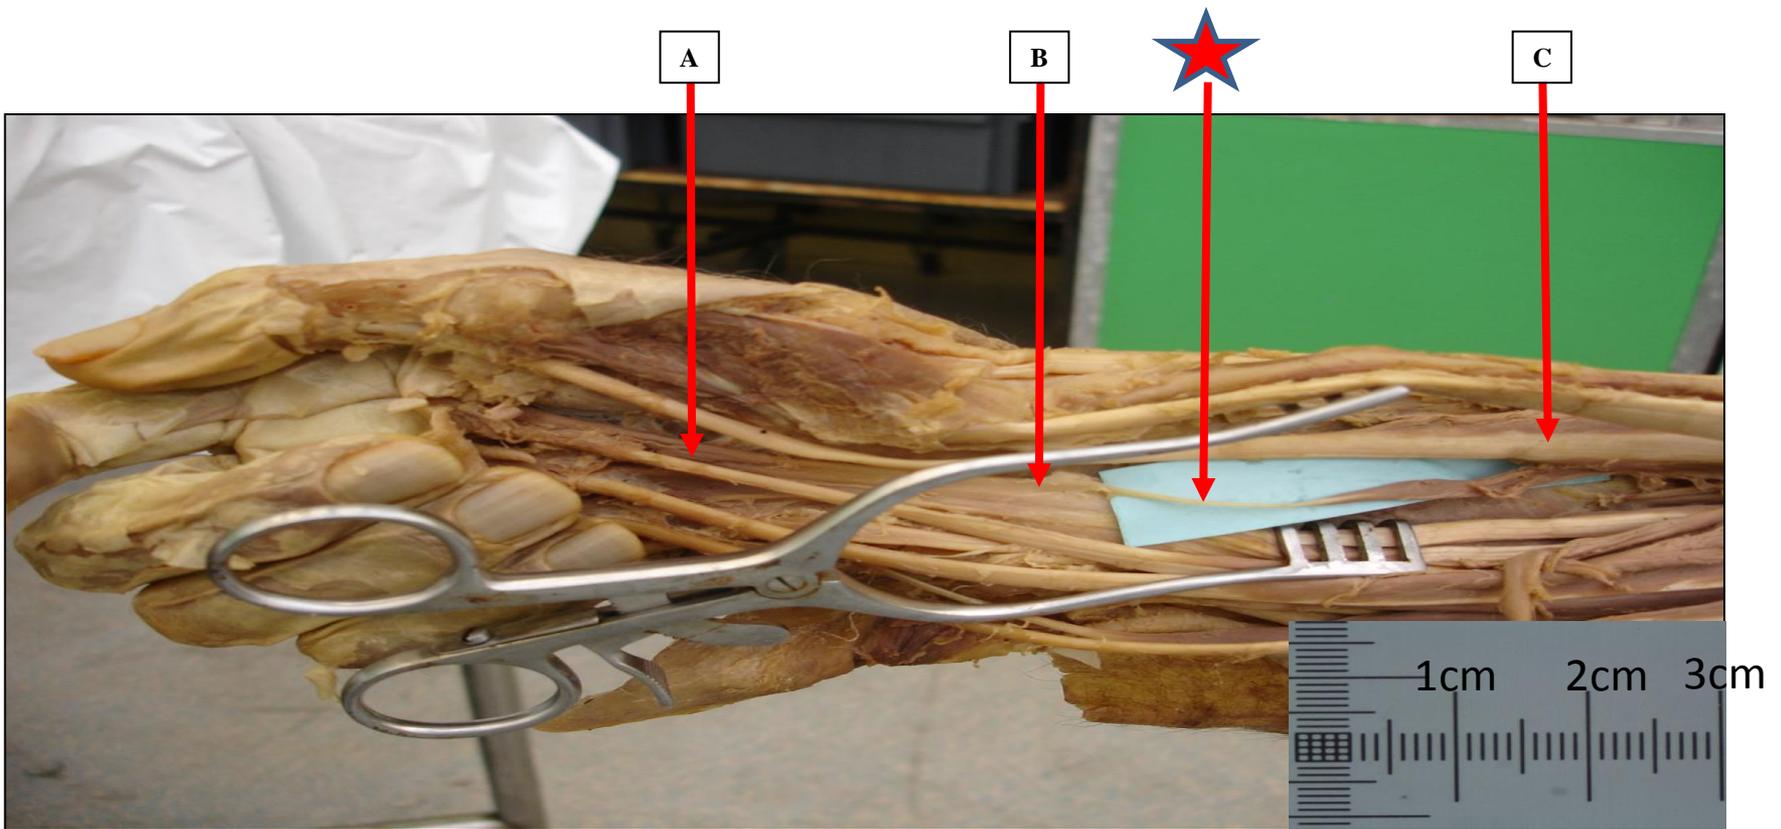

Figure 3.15: Demonstrating an interconnection (★) between the Flexor Pollicis Longus (C) and Flexor Digitorum Profundus (index finger) (B). Also seen is Flexor Digitorum Superficialis (index finger) (A)

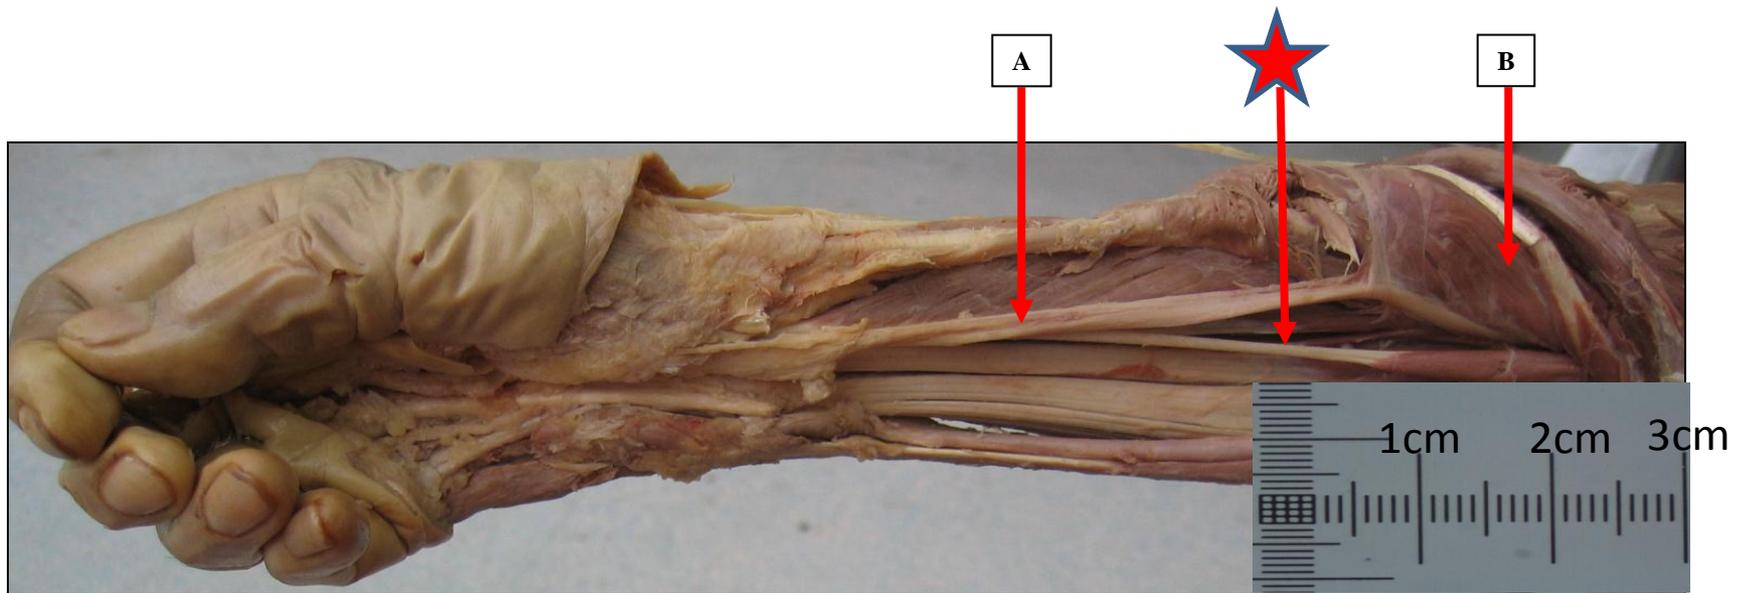

Figure 3.16: Demonstrating an interconnection (★) between the Flexor Digitorum Profundus (index finger) (B) and Flexor Pollicis Longus (A).

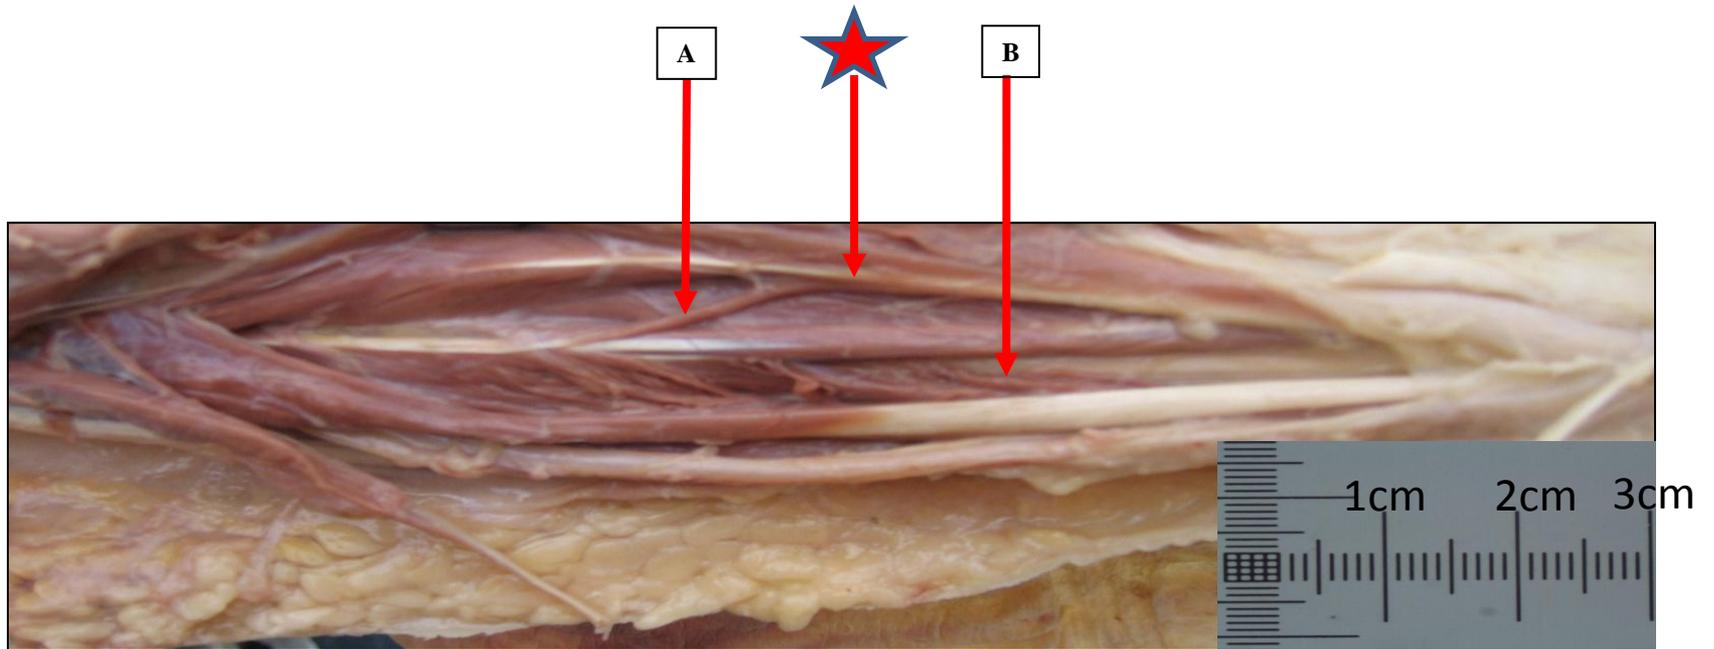

Figure 3.17: Demonstrating an interconnection (★) between the Flexor Digitorum Superficialis (ring finger) (B) and Flexor Digitorum Superficialis (index finger) (A).

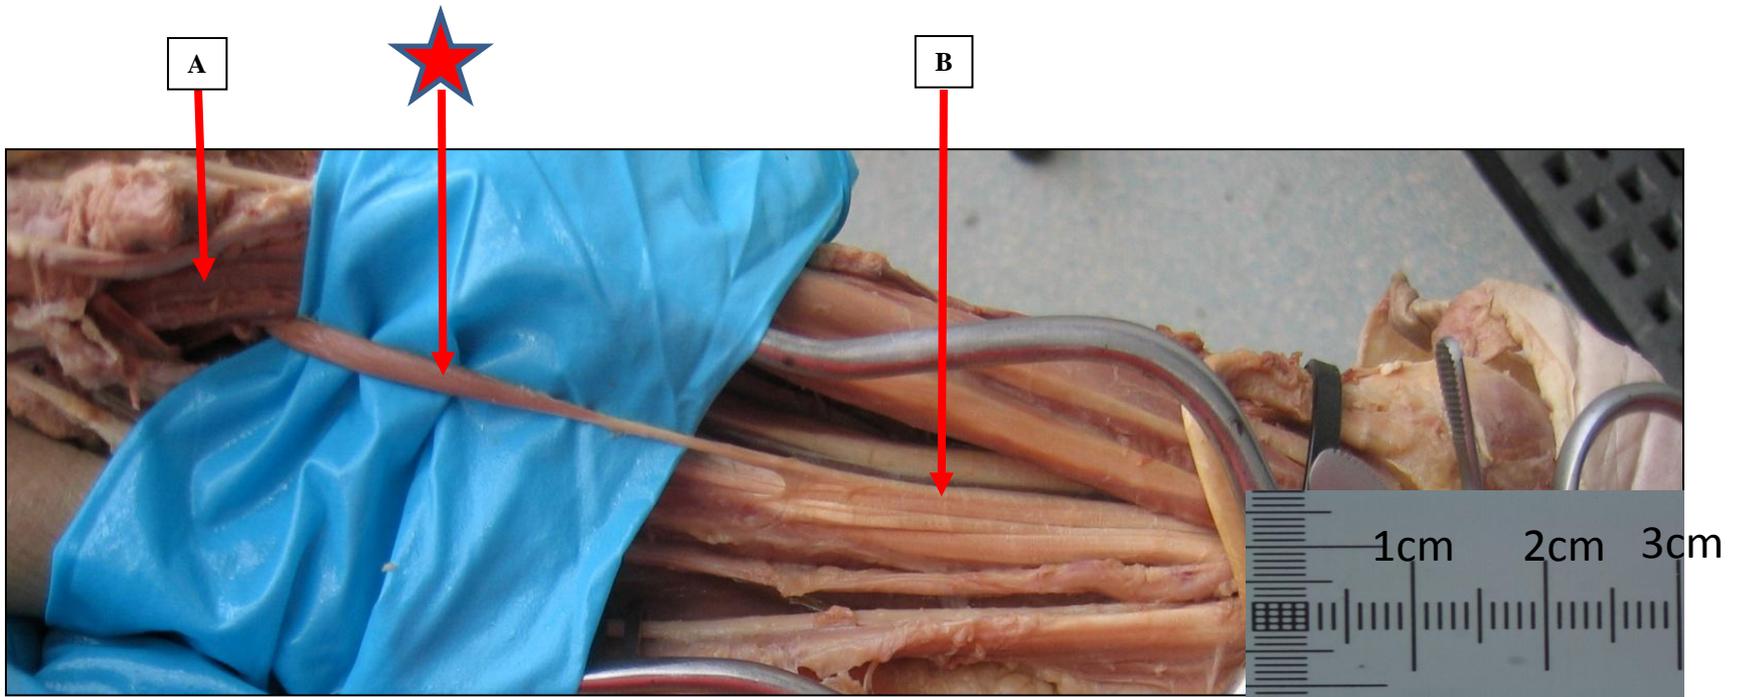

Figure 3.18: Demonstrating an interconnection () between the Flexor Digitorum Superficialis (A) and Flexor Digitorum Profundus (B) at the forearm

Figure 3.19: Demonstrating an intermediate tendon (★) in the Flexor Digitorum Superficialis (index) muscle (A) at the forearm .

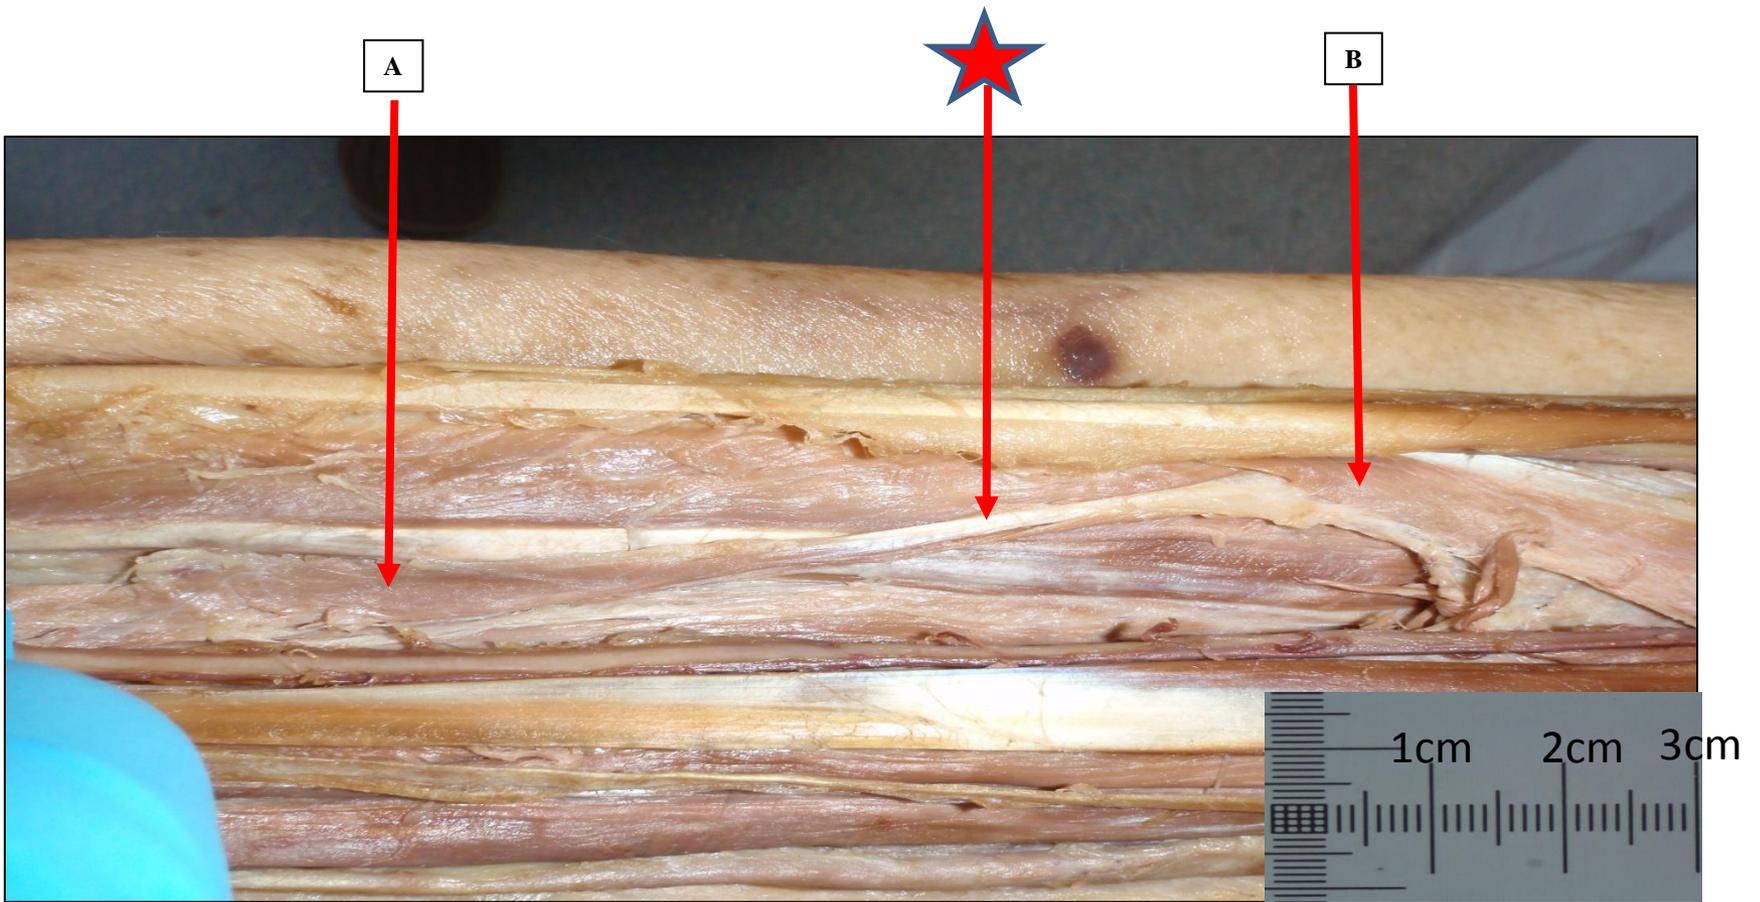

Figure 3.20: Demonstrating a tendinous interconnection (★) between Pronator Teres (B) and Flexor Digitorum Superficialis (A) at the forearm

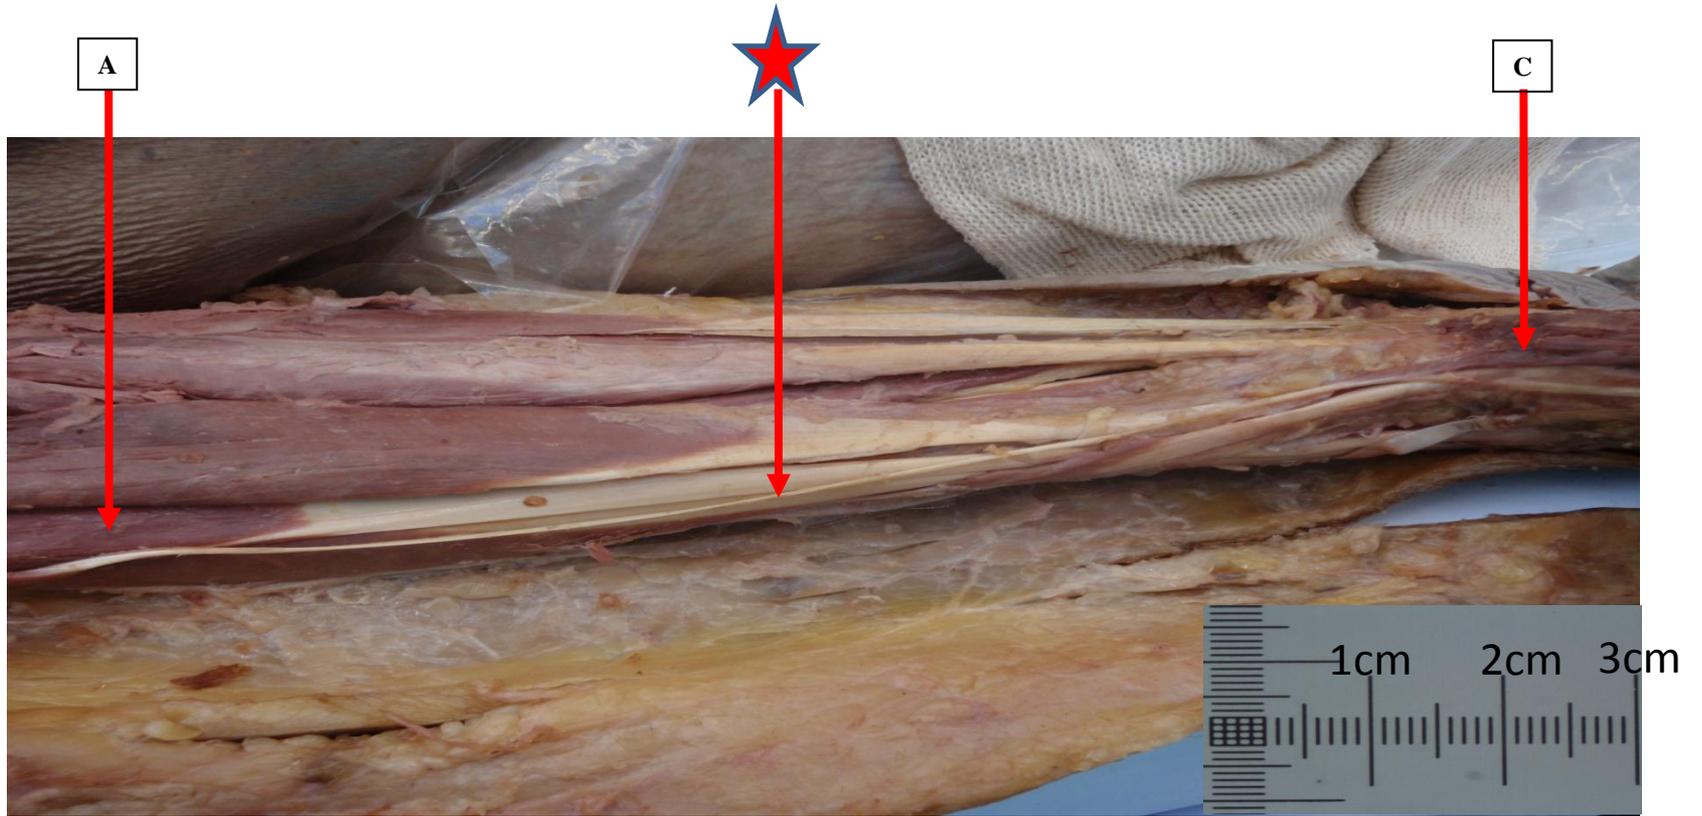

Figure 3.21: Demonstrating a tendinous interconnection () between Extensor Carpi Radialis Brevis (A) and Abductor Pollicis Brevis (B) at the forearm

Figure 3.22: Demonstrating a tendinous interconnection (★) between Flexor Carpi Ulnaris (B) and Flexor Digitorum Superficialis (A) at the forearm

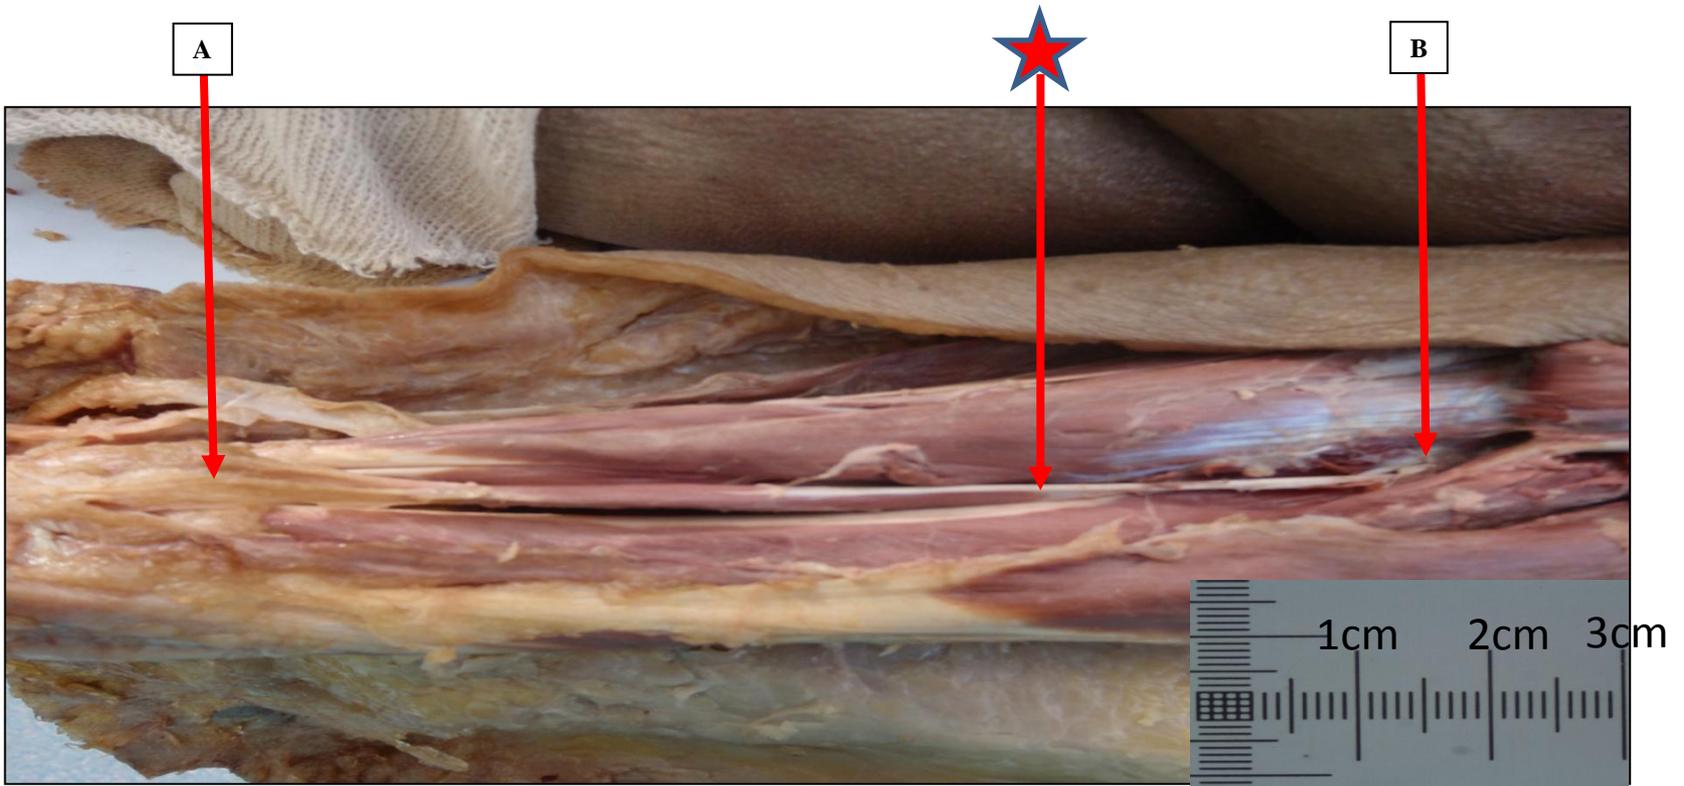

Figure 3.23: Demonstrating a tendinous interconnection () between Flexor Retinaculum (A) and Flexor Digitorum Superficialis (B) at the forearm

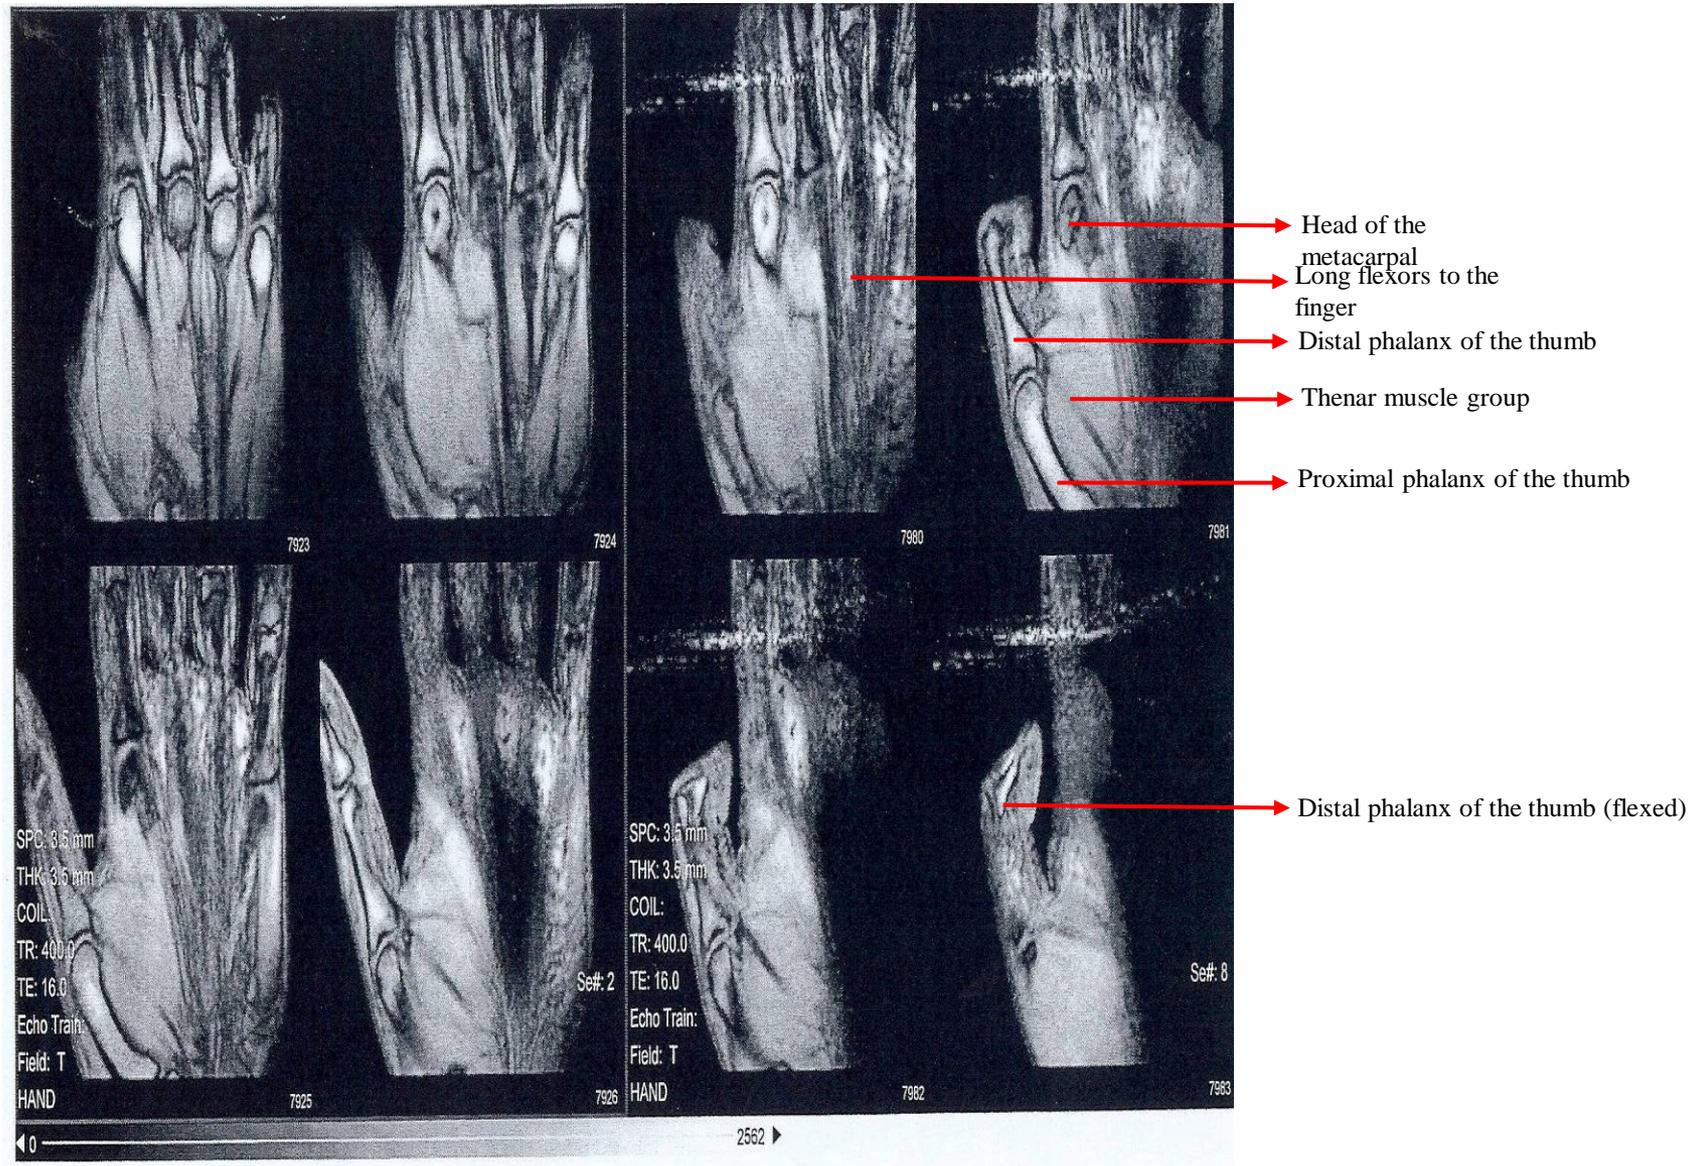

Figure 3.29: Images taken during pilot study.

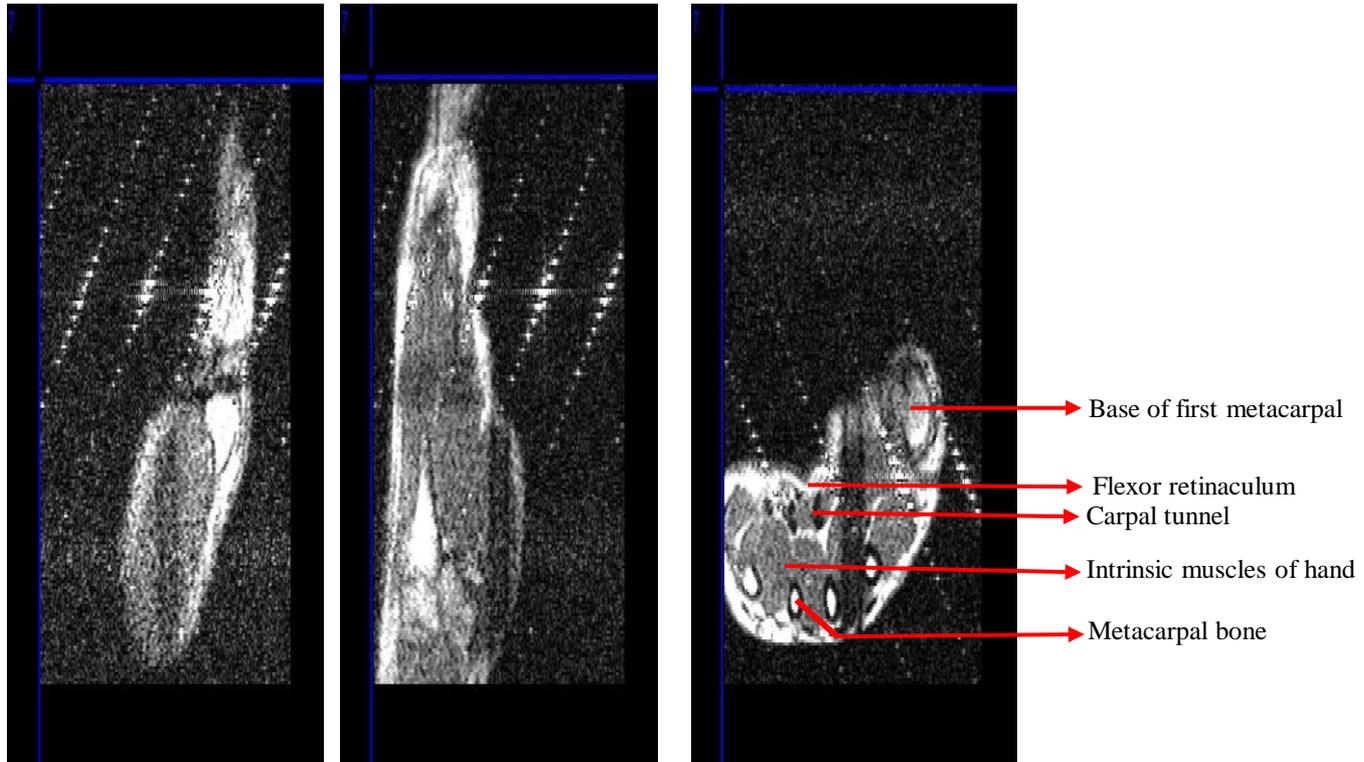

Figure 3.30: Images taken with the volunteer. The image quality is poor with artefacts.